Answer the following questions : ( write in the notebook )

Ans a. Every morning and evening , Dhwani was supposed to stand in the courtyard and sing.

Ans b. The koel told Dhwani about how it had played a trick on the landlord and got its freedom .It had succeeded in imitating the crow ,which angered the landlord so much that he freed it.

Ans c. Dhwani sang a very sad song to the landlord one day .This moved him to tears and he realised that music cannot be caged.Just like he had freed the koel ,Dhwani too was set free.

Think and write :(do in the notebook)

Ans 1. Yes,city life is not very peaceful because of its hustle - bustle .There is so much of noise and pollution which disturbs one's mind and body.

Ans 2 and 3 .....cut them out

Ans 4. Dhwani used the words (lyrics ) of her song in a very effective manner to teach the landlord a good lesson in a nice way .Dhwani sang the sad story of the caged koel that moved the landlord to tears.He realised his mistake of putting restrictions on music.

Ans 5. The story teaches us an important lesson that good and pleasant things in life need to be set free. We cannot bind something to enjoy it.Music flows the best when it is free to flow.

Ans 6 . Cut it out
